In response to your public notice of June 25th, 2013, Dicapta Corp. would like to note the lack of availability of video description in Spanish language networks and cable stations despite the fact that they are number one in ratings in some of the media markets according to Nielsen. Refer to the following link for found results: <http://tvbythenumbers.zap2it.com/2013/07/10/univision-is-the-number-1-broadcast-network-among-adults-18-49-and-18-34-for-second-consecutive-week/191240/>.

As a service provider, Dicapta continues to offer Video Description to Spanish language educational programs through funds from the US Department of Education. It is not clear how this population will have access when funds run out. In addition, direct beneficiaries, that is, blind Spanish dominant individuals, continue to request Video description for entertainment programs. Our response to date has been to direct them to congress and the FCC.
